Madison school budget up for OK

By COLLIN OVERTON
Courier staff writer

The Madison Consolidated Schools trustees plan to adopt Wednesday night a budget containing $37,647,093 in appropriations for the 2020 school year.

That budget is built on raising the rate for school taxes 77 percent, but the actual number will be much lower, says Bonnie Hensler, director of finance and human resources for the district.

The new budget has a $1.47 tax rate. But that rate is inflated significantly this year to account for future bond payments because of Madison's ongoing facilities improvement project, Hensler said. Because it isn't clear what the district will be paying on those bonds yet, Hensler said, the goal is to aim high to account for reductions the state will make to the budget later, as it historically has done.

School districts and public bodies in Indiana submit their adopted budgets to the state Department of Local Government Finance (DLGF), which looks at the submitted budgets, and in almost every instance, makes reductions. The actual budget and tax rates after state evaluation are what apply each budget year, Hensler said. The district likely won't know the actual amounts until January or February 2020, she said.

The actual rate most likely will be less than a dollar, she said.

The impact on taxpayers is dependent on the value of their property because the state in 2009 began requiring residents pay no more than 1 percent of their assessed homestead property value in property taxes, according to the DGLF. That means the owner of a $200,000 house would pay no more than $2,000 in property taxes on their home, even with a $1.47 rate. A 2 percent cap applies to other residential and agricultural land and a 3 percent rate or cap applies to other real and personal property. The cap applies not only to the school tax, but also to all city and county property tax rates.

There will be a public hearing on the bonds and the facilities improvement project before the school board's meeting Wednesday at 6 p.m.

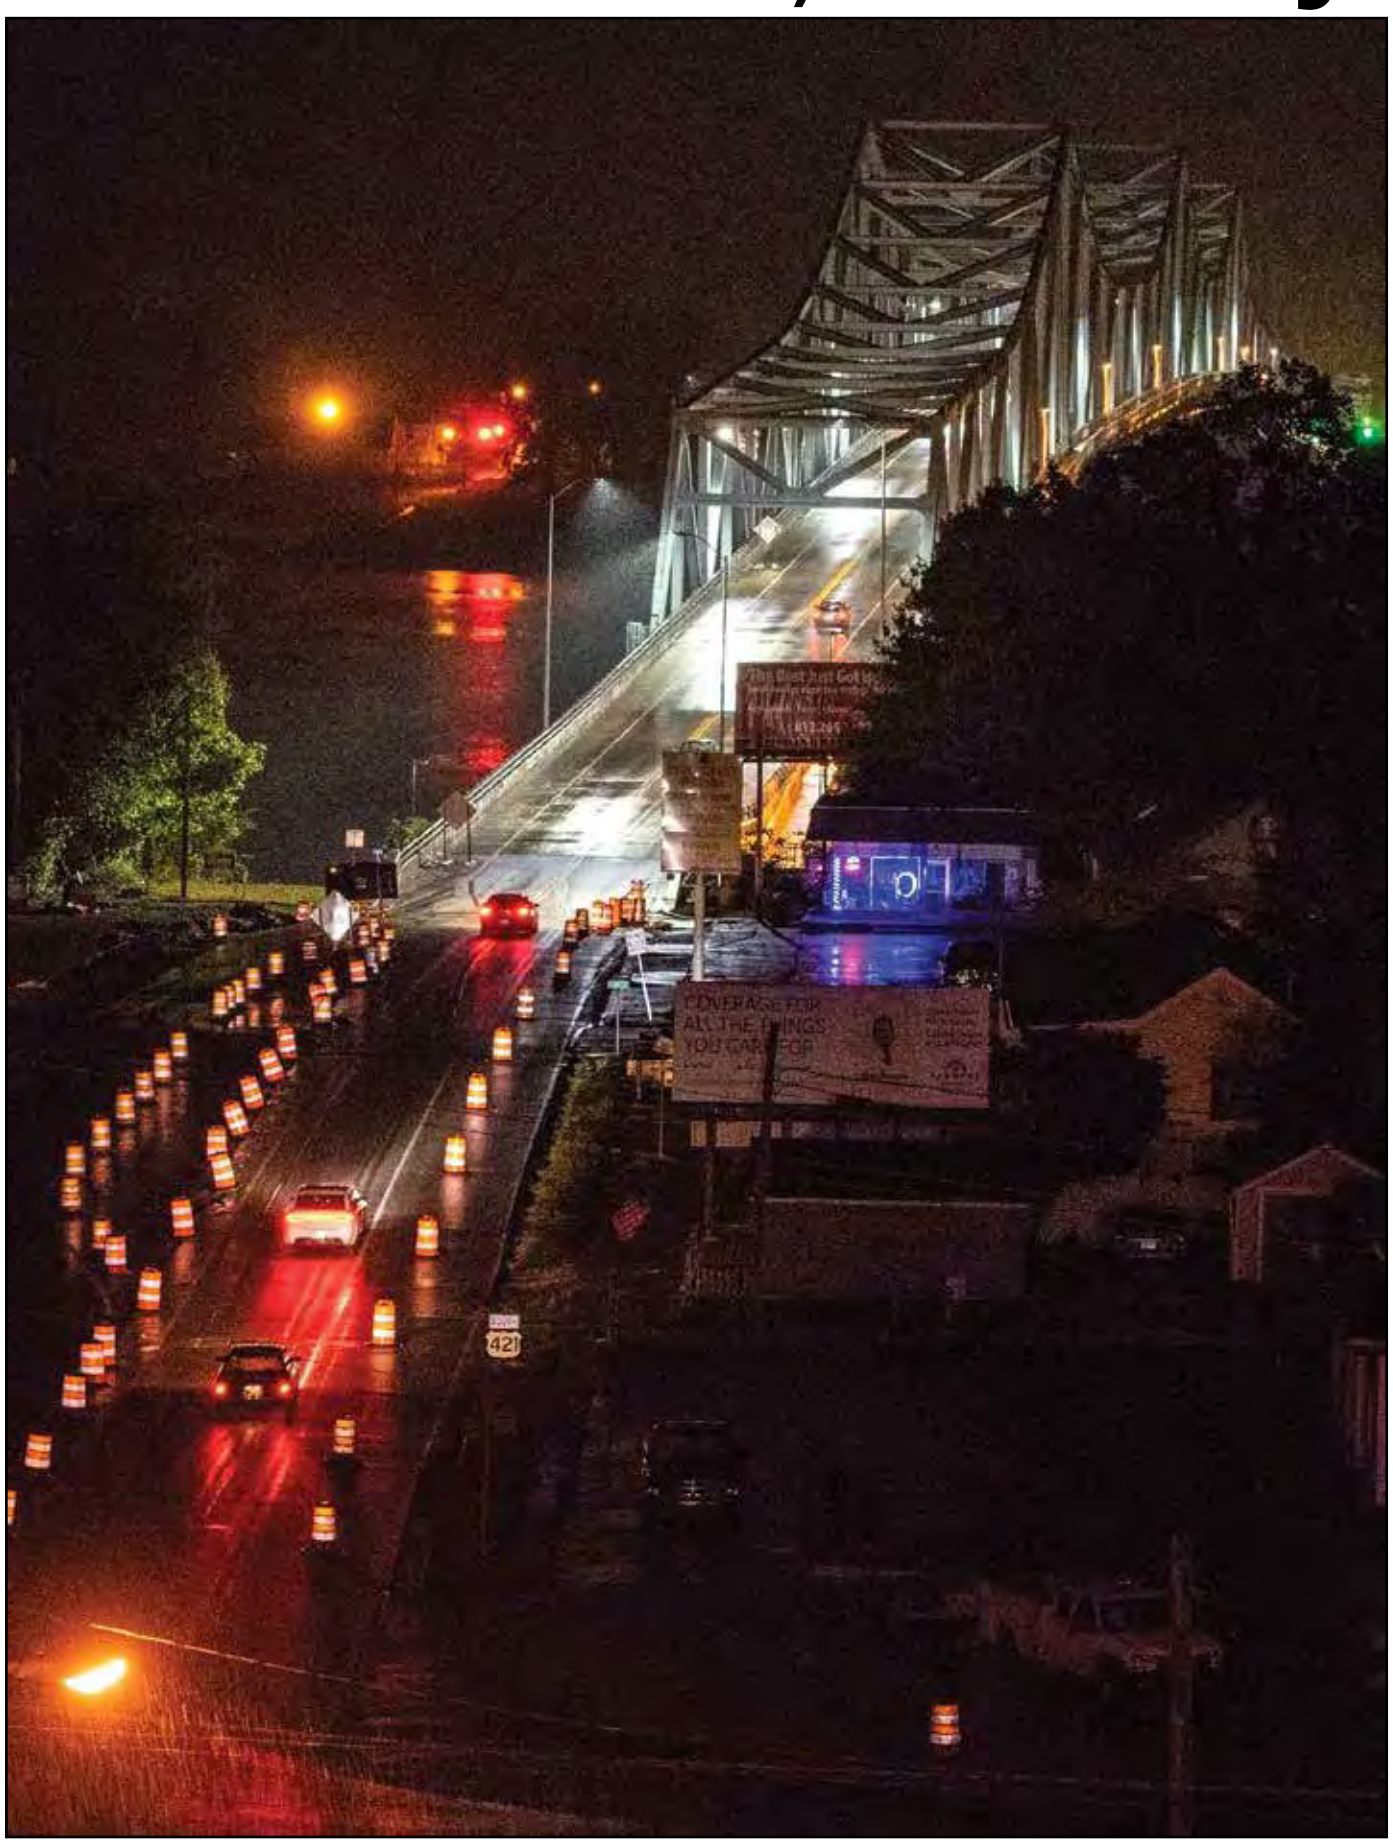
'Not anywhere near what we need'

Rain teases; still dry



The Milton-Madison bridge glistens with fresh rainfall as commuters head to work early Monday morning. An intermittent drizzle Sunday night and early Monday produced the first precipitation locally since Sept. 27, but well short of what the area needs to lift the current ban on burning in Jefferson and surrounding counties in Indiana and Kentucky. "We'll take anything we can get but it's not anywhere near what we need to lift the burn ban," Jefferson County Emergency Management Director Troy Morgan said. "I've still got dust spots in my yard. The moisture on the surface helped a little but it didn't do anything for the water table and that's what we really look at. It would take three solid days of this to make a difference." With only 5.14 inches of rainfall since the end of June — including .13 of an inch in the entire month of September and just 1.54 inches in August — weeks of drought have left fields and forests vulnerable to fire while distressing crops and making conditions unsuitable for fall planting. Midwest Tube Mills

Madison business expanding to Texas

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

Madison-based Midwest Tube Mills Inc. is expanding its manufacturing facilities to add a new 40,000-square-foot satellite plant in Wills Point, Texas, located about 50 miles east of Dallas and about 850 miles southwest of Madison.

Company officials, city leaders and members of the Wills Point Chamber of Commerce and Wills Point Economic Development Corporation held a groundbreaking Friday in the Wills Point Business Park there.

"I am pleased to announce on behalf of Midwest Tube Mills Inc. that we have reached an agreement to construct a new 40,000-square-foot facility in the Wills Point Business Park. This facility will be an expansion of our current business and will initially house two tube mills," Midwest Tube Mills President and CEO Rick Russell said.

"We have been looking for a site in Texas for some time and feel that Wills Point offers everything needed for us to successfully expand our business into this area," Russell added. "Pam Pearson and everyone affiliated with the Wills Point Economic Development Corporation have done a tremendous job in aligning our strategic objectives with the opportunities available here in Wills Point. We are excited to join the Wills Point business community and plan on continuing our history of good corporate citizenship to this area."

Wills Point, Texas plant site to be 40,000-square-foot plant running two tube mills.

The company is the leading manufacturer of tube fencing in the industry and currently sells product into the entire lower 48 states, as well as Canada and the Caribbean from its 60-plus acre campus in Madison, which includes over 430,000 square feet of manufacturing space housing five tube mills and one powder coating line.

"We feel we have found the perfect place to grow our business in the near term and have also identified many opportunities for continued growth over the years. We have an established customer base in this region that we can better serve by being closer," Russell said. "We want to thank everyone involved with this project and look forward to becoming as part of the Wills Point Community."

Midwest Tube Mills celebrated its 25th anniversary in the tube and pipe business just last year. The company actually got its start with four employees in an 8,000-square-foot facility in Edinburgh, Indiana, but relocated to Madison, where steady growth and expansion has led to expanding the overall workforce to about 120 employes.

Marion County acting prosecutor voted into top job

Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS — Ryan Mears narrowly won a Marion County Democratic caucus vote on Saturday to complete the term of Prosecutor Terry Curry through the end of 2022. Mears became the acting county prosecutor after Curry resigned last month for health reasons but faced a challenge for the position from Tim Moriarty, a top aide to Indianapolis Mayor Joe Hogsett. The Democratic precinct committee members voted 157-147 in favor of Mears despite Moriarty having endorsements from Hogsett and U.S. Rep. Andre Carson. Mears emphasized his experience in the prosecutor's office and announced he would stop pressing criminal charges against adults for possessing about one ounce or less of marijuana.

BMV puts nonbinary gender IDs on hold

INDIANAPOLIS — The Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles is putting on hold a policy allowing nonbinary gender designations on driver's licenses while state officials develop new formal regulations for gender changes on state-issued IDs. The agency had proposed allowing such changes with an amended birth certificate or a special state Department of Health form signed by a doctor. State Attorney General Curtis Hill stalled the proposal last month, citing insufficient public notification. The BMV said it is working on a revised proposal and set a public hearing for Nov. 15. BMV spokeswoman Susan Guyer told The Journal Gazette that it will continue processing male-to-female and female-to-male gender modifications with a doctor's statement. She said the agency won't approve more requests for nonbinary X designations until the regulation change is completed.

New permit to exhume Dillinger wins OK

INDIANAPOLIS — Officials have approved a new permit relatives of 1930s gangster John Dillinger had sought to exhume his Indianapolis gravesite. The permit approved Thursday by the Indiana State Department of Health calls for the remains to be exhumed Dec. 31. Dillinger's nephew, Michael C. Thompson, applied for the permit last month after he and another relative obtained an earlier permit calling for a Sept. 16 exhumation. That exhumation did not occur after Crown Hill Cemetery officials objected to the exhumation. Thompson is suing the cemetery, seeking a court order to gain access to the grave. Thompson has said he has evidence Dillinger's body may not be buried there, and he may not have been the man FBI agents fatally shot outside a Chicago theater on July 22, 1934. The FBI said in a statement in August that it was a "myth" that its agents didn't kill Dillinger.

Wabash River 90-mile trail plan advances

LAFAYETTE — A proposed 90-mile pedestrian and bike trail along the Wabash River is moving deeper into the planning stages. The nonprofit Wabash River Enhancement Corp. has used a $35,000 planning-to-plan grant to form a steering committee and create a master plan for the trail, which would be along or near the river in Warren, Fountain, Tippecanoe, Carroll and Cass counties. The Journal & Courier reported project planners are now on schedule to have a final report, work plan, project schedule and cost estimate submitted this month to both the nonprofit and the Wabash Heartland Innovation Network, which provided the grant money. Stan Lambert is the executive director of the Wabash River Enhancement Corp. He says the planning work is "a very exciting project and an extensive project."

Police say gunman wounded 5 after fight

EVANSVILLE — Police say a gunman wounded five people when he opened fire outside a bar after being thrown out because of a fight. Three of those wounded were hospitalized with serious injuries from the shooting about 3 a.m. Sunday, while the other two suffered minor injuries and declined treatment. Police say officers arrested a 37-year-old man who witnesses said fired the shots at an American Legion post near downtown Evansville. Police say the man was in the parking lot when the person he was fighting with went outside with a group of people. The man fired into the group, with bullets also hitting four vehicles. The man was jailed on preliminary charges including attempted murder and illegal possession of a firearm by a serious violent felon.

Pilot from Florida killed in plane crash

KOKOMO — Authorities say a pilot from Florida was killed when a small plane crashed in a central Indiana farm field. The Howard County Sheriff's Office said the crash happened Saturday evening in a soybean field along Indiana 22 just east of Kokomo. Deputies found the twin-engine plane a few hundred yards from the roadway with one person inside who was dead at the scene. The county coroner's office identified the pilot as Daniel P. Greenwald, 59, a physician from Tampa, Florida, and said he died from blunt-force trauma in the crash. The sheriff's department said the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board have been notified.

Kentucky

Victim's relative fatally hits suspect

LOUISVILLE — Authorities say a family member of a stabbing victim drove to help the relative and ended up hitting and killing the man suspected of the attack. News outlets reported Louisville Metro Police responded to a private, 24-hour fishing spot early Sunday morning on reports two men had gotten into a fight and were injured. Officers say one man emerged from the woods near the lake and attacked another man with a knife. News outlets report the two men didn't appear to know each other. Police say a relative of the stabbing victim then drove to the lake to give their family member aid and struck and killed the suspect with the car. The stabbing victim's condition hasn't been reported. No arrests have been made.

Accident kills 2, injuries 5

BARDSTOWN — Police say a two-vehicle crash has killed two people and injured five others. News outlets reported the accident occurred Saturday in Nelson County when a minivan attempting to turn left across a road into a driveway collided with an oncoming SUV. The Nelson County Sheriff's Office said in a statement two passengers in the minivan were dead at the scene. Both drivers and three other passengers of both vehicles were taken to a hospital. Their conditions were not immediately known. The investigation remains ongoing.

Inmate who killed black teen dies in jail

GRAYSON — Authorities say foul play isn't suspected in the death of a white inmate convicted of killing a black West Virginia teenager he had called a "piece of trash." U.S. Marshal Service Deputy Fred Lamey confirmed William Ronald Pulliam, 65, died Thursday at the Carter County Detention Center. News outlets report that authorities haven't released his cause of death, pending an autopsy. Pulliam pleaded guilty in August to second-degree murder for shooting James Means, 15, in 2016. Prosecutors had recommended a 20-year sentence, but a sentencing hearing hadn't been held. In the criminal complaint, Charleston, West Virginia, police wrote that Pulliam described Means' death as "another piece of trash off the street." Pulliam wasn't charged with a hate crime.

Companies get creative on workforce shortages now, expected

By TARA SCHMELZ
(Jeffersonville & New Albany) News and Tribune

INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana runs on the power of manufacturing and, with thousands of jobs in that field unfilled, many are left wondering if the remaining companies now scrambling will move, taking their business, and Indiana's economy, with them.

"Manufacturing is 30 percent of our gross domestic product in Indiana. Our state's economy depends on manufacturing. If manufacturing goes away, you won't need hospitals, fast food, stores, our economy depends on manufacturing," said Sue Smith, Ivy Tech vice president for Advanced Manufacturing, Engineering and Applied Science. "If we don't have the resources for manufacturing companies to grow and prosper, they will have no choice but to leave Indiana."

So, educators, businesses and community members are getting creative, teaming together like never before to battle the skills-gap and address the shortage.

"We really have to figure out how to not only educate our current workforce, but to also look at our future workforce and make sure they are educated, as well, to the level that they need to be," Smith said.

The skills gap nationally may leave an estimated 2.4 million positions unfilled between 2018 and 2028. 2.69 million jobs are open from retirements and 1.96 million new jobs are open due to natural growth, which equals 4.6 million manufacturing jobs that will need to be filled from 2018 to 2028. Only 2.2 million jobs are likely to be filled, which will leave 53 out of 100, or 2.4 million, skilled open positions vacant due to a skills shortage in the U.S. manufacturing industry. This information is calculated on the basis of 52.7% of the skilled manufactuing positions are unfilled (per a 2018 survey) and based on the retirement age of 66. Source: BLS Data, OEM (Oxford Econommics Model), Deloitte and Manufacturing Institute Skills Research Initiative.

THE PERFECT STORM

To address the shortage, one must examine its causes.

"I think it's the perfect storm on why jobs are going unfilled," Smith said. "People don't think manufacturing is a great career, but the average student graduates and makes $55,000 the first year."

Another issue, Smith said, is that those already in the manufacturing field aren't qualified for the jobs that continue to get more high tech as automation hits more assembly lines.

"We're not going to lose in manufacturing [jobs], 95% of the jobs will still be there. They will just be different and they'll require more skills and they'll require us to be more innovative," she said. "It's just becoming more and more high tech, so the skill level has to be higher and higher and the talent has to be greater and greater."

Indiana isn't alone. Nationally, 508,000 manufacturing jobs were unfilled at last count, in August of last year, according to themanufacturinginstitute.org. A study by that organization also points to higher skill levels needed for the jobs and low perception of manufacturing as being a good career choice, as reasons behind the troubled job sector. If things stay as they are, 2.4 million of the country's manufacturing jobs are expected to go unfilled through 2028, according to The Manufacturing Institute.

FORMING AN ALLIANCE

To address the skills gap, officials from Samtec and a handful of other Scott County manufacturing plants got together in late 2016 to determine what skills were lacking in their workplaces, and how to meet those needs with employee training.

Of that came the Regional Manufacturing Alliance, which includes seven companies, the Scott County Economic Development Corp. and Mid-America Science Park. Their goal: training incumbent workers to address short- and long-term workplace needs.

"We all agreed we're not going to be a competition. We're going to be a collaboration," said Craig Mull, chairperson of the alliance and 23-year Samtec employee. "We're not going to try to steal each other's employees. We're going to truly try to understand the gaps, what the skills gaps we're seeing in the country."

They've teamed with Vincennes University to create a curriculum of work-based courses. The classes are specifically tailored to address the skills gap at those seven companies. Most of the courses are 15 weeks long and are located within two miles of those originating companies.

"The main thing is the curriculum and training are specifically designed so that whoever takes the class, whether that be an existing technician or supervisor, it's something that can be put to use immediately," Mull said. "When you start talking about apprenticeships and things like that, those are longer-term programs. These programs are designed to enhance their skill tomorrow."

The group is working with the state's Next Level Jobs program to secure $70,000 in grant money to fund the educational programs.

The collaboration shown by the Regional Manufacturing Alliance could be the poster child for the goal of the Next Level Jobs program, according to Blair Milo, Indiana's first secretary for Career Connections and Talent.

"They recognized, and we're seeing this happen in many areas across the state, that the value of collaboration is huge," Milo said.

STARTING EARLIER

To address to projected national shortage, the education needs to start earlier — much earlier.

Bryon Silk, CWD executive director of Business Services, said he thinks the target needs to be just after elementary school.

"I think a lot of it starts earlier than the young adults. It goes a little deeper into middle school and some of what manufacturing is thought of, that it is dark, dirty and dingy, and it's not that anymore," Silk said. "We have to educate children more of what manufacturing is."

Exhibit A: Samtec's Scottsburg plant, a gleaming, 70,000-square-foot palace of electronic connector manufacturing that employs 330 people.

The facility is a prime example that the manufacturing industry has changed.

MAKING THE CONNECTION

Once that younger population gains interest in the field, then later receives the required training, it's on to connecting them to the opportunities available, especially in Indiana.

"I think in Indiana we have some incredible talent and increased opportunities for that talent," Smith said. "It is making that match is what we're trying to do."

To accomplish that, Ivy Tech has partnered with Tallo, an online platform aimed at connecting talented students with employers.

"We really wanted to focus on one of the greatest needs in the state of Indiana, how do we continue to fill the talent pipeline in one of the state's most critical fields, which is manufacturing," said Casey Welch, CEO and co-founder of Tallo. "[The question was] how do we connect those students who are going through that pipeline to the companies? … The connection wasn't really there outside of the traditional career fair."

So they are meeting them where the students are familiar: online.

The Ivy Tech-Tallo partnership is still in its infancy stage, with the full launch expected in a few months, as more employers are brought on board.

All this effort throughout the state to address the skills gap and worker shortage is expected to pay off, not just for the companies, but in the economy. According to The Manufacturing Institute, every dollar in output from the manufacturing industry generates another $1.89 of additional value, and every direct job creates 2.5 additional jobs in the U.S. economy.

More about how property taxes work

Property taxes are a primary source of funding for local government units. ...Property taxes are administered and collected by local government officials. These funds are used to pay for a variety of services including welfare; police and fire; new construction and maintenance of buildings; local infrastructure like highways, roads and streets; and the operations, including salaries, of the local units of government.

Property taxes are an ad valorem tax, meaning that they are allocated to each taxpayer proportionately according to the value of the taxpayer's property. The statewide average revenue distribution for each property tax dollar is as follows:

County: $0.19
Township: $0.03
City/Town: $0.24
School: $0.42
Library: $0.04
Special Unit: $0.07

Breakdown is based on average expenditure per dollar of property tax levied in Indiana for taxes payable in 2018. (Information sourced by the Department)

The Department's website offers a variety of resources to educate and inform taxpayers on this process. The site also features search tools to provide taxpayers with sales disclosure and assessment information on properties statewide.

Flu vaccine is already available at the Jefferson County Health Department, 715 Green Road, Madison, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The department has high dose and regular dose shots and a very limited supply of nasal flu vaccine.

The JCHD can bill most private insurance companies and Medicare but also has a limited supply of free flu vaccine for uninsured.

For more information, call the JCHD at 812-273-1942.

Flu shots can also be obtained through primary care providers and many pharmacies. To find the nearest location to get a flu shot, go to https://vaccinefinder.org/

Harold was inducted into the United States Army on January 22, 1962 in Versailles. He rose to the rate of Private serving in Headquarters Company Third Regiment at Fort Jackson, South Carolina. He was honorably discharged on July 26, 1967. On November 16, 1963, Harold was united in marriage to Marilyn Maschino in Hayden, Indiana. This happy union was blessed with a son, David, and a daughter, Joan. Harold and Marilyn enjoyed 43 years of marriage until her sudden death on November 22, 2006. Harold was later united in marriage to Janet Parker Vest on January 3, 2008 in Gatlinburg, Tennessee. This union joined two families into one as Harold gained a son, Tommy and a daughter, Valita. Early in life he worked for MoorMan's Feed where he had been awarded top salesman. He then worked in construction for twenty years before owning and operating Braley Sawmill for the next twenty-two years. He also worked as a truck driver for many years hauling freight. Harold enjoyed camping with his wife Janet at Kamp Kettlebottom Conservation Club near New Washington. He had a love for horses and was a craftsman that was passionate about woodworking. Harold was a 50 year member of the Masonic Lodge and was a former member of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite Valley of Indianapolis. Harold grew up in the Tanglewood Baptist Church of Versailles where he had also held membership. On Sunday, October 6, 2019, Harold was to become a member of the Union Baptist Church in Lamb, Indiana. Unexpectedly on Saturday, October 5, 2019, Harold passed away. The church honored Harold by making him a member the day after he passed away just as he had planned for that Sunday morning.

Hostile husband needs to stop animal harassment against cat

Annie Lane

Dear Annie: I am 28 years old, and recently celebrated my second wedding anniversary. I have been with my husband, Tom, for a total of five years, but due to immigration trials and tribulations, we have only been living together full time for two-and-a-half years (first in the United States and now in the United Kingdom).

My issue is my husband's relationship with my beloved 9-year-old cat, Whiskers.

When Tom first began to visit me, prior to our engagement, and then live with me in the United States, he had no issue with Whiskers — loving him and accompanying him outside into the garden when we had a short-fenced yard at a rental property and Whiskers was not allowed outside alone. This continued until about a year ago, when Tom began to dislike Whiskers.

It started with purring. Whiskers is large and loud, and his purring is certainly noticeable, but I have always thought of this as a "happy noise." Now, Tom will leave the room in a huff if Whiskers starts purring, and he is not allowed on the bed, even though the dogs are when we are not sleeping. My husband is hostile toward the cat, and I have confronted Tom about my suspicions that he is abusive toward Whiskers when I am not around. The cat now avoids him and will run upstairs when Tom gets home. He has denied it, but his actions when he thinks I am not looking make me disbelieve him. I received Whiskers as a kitten from my mother when my 5-month-old daughter passed away suddenly and I was in the depths of the darkest grief, desperately needing something to take care of. Whiskers means the world to me. To be frank, if Tom had acted this way toward Whiskers in the beginning, I would not have pursued a life with him.

I have told Tom how hurtful I find his treatment of Whiskers and reminded him of how important that silly cat is to me. Nothing seems to make a difference.

Why is it so hard for him to love, or just pretend to tolerate, and be kind to this part of my life that is so important to me? Am I asking too much? What should I do? — Depressed and Confused

Dear Depressed and Confused: It sounds like Tom might be jealous of your close relationship with sweet Whiskers, and he is acting horribly because of it. If he treats your innocent 9-year-old cat this way, I hate to think how he would treat other things that are important to you. You are certainly not asking too much of Tom. In fact, you are not asking enough.

The beginning is always the honeymoon phase, and it sounds like Tom was on his best behavior and pretending to like the cat. Now that you are married and he is feeling more comfortable, his true colors are showing. I am sorry to say this, but those colors are ugly. The fact that the cat runs away from him, and that you suspect abuse, is very telling.

I would speak firmly to Tom and say that you believe that he is hurting Whiskers. Plus, there is nothing silly about a cat. This animal has brought you great comfort during some of the saddest days of your life. Now you owe it to Whiskers to provide him comfort and safety. How someone treats animals says a lot about how they would treat children and other people.

Tom needs counseling for his treatment of Whiskers. The fact that he changed his behavior is even worse. If he is unwilling to go to therapy and talk about his aggressive behavior, seriously consider grabbing Whiskers --and perhaps your other pets as well -- and walking out the door. Thank you for writing, and I hope your next husband respects all living creatures as much as you do.

Southwestern boys run to 5th-straight ORVC title

Shawe's Calli Alderman wins ORVC crown; Madison teams 6th, 8th in HHC

Southwestern was expected to win the Ohio River Valley Conference boys cross country championship on Saturday, but that doesn't make victory any less sweet.

The Rebels capped off a long day of cross country by winning their fifth-straight ORVC title in dominating fashion at Hanover College. Southwestern's Trevor Smith also took home the boys individual title while Shawe freshman Calli Alderman cruised to victory in the girls race.

Earlier in the day, Madison competed in the Hoosier Hills Conference championship on the same Hanover College course in a meet hosted by Jeffersonville. The Lady Cubs finished sixth in the race while the boys placed eighth.

All local schools will return to Hanover's championship course Saturday, Oct. 12 for the IHSAA Sectional.

Ohio River Valley Conference

Southwestern's boys have dominated their ORVC competition all season and Saturday's race was no exception.

All five Rebels' scorers finished in the top 10 and Southwestern nearly placed six runners on the all-conference team. The top four runners placed in the top six and overall, the Rebels scored 23 points to easily beat Jac-Cen-Del's 42. Rising Sun was third with 84 and South Ripley ran fourth with 92.

Smith led the charge for the Rebels by winning the race in 17:28.6. He spent the first 3,000 meters trying to get clear of JCD's Damon Hughes and finally did so to win by 30 seconds.

"It was a fight between me and Damon Hughes. He's a good runner. He was pushing me and I was pushing him. This ain't the first time we've run up against each other but somehow I ended up with the win," Smith said. "I knew he would have me at the end if we were side-by-side because he's more of a sprinter than I am and can kick harder. I knew I had to go a little earlier."

Hughes came in at 17:58.8 and Southwestern's Caleb Geary ran third after beating teammate Gavyn Mundt to the line, 18:03.5 to 18:03.8. The Rebels' Brandon Smith was sixth in 18:34.5 and Matthew Williams was 10th in 18:59.4 to round out the team scoring.

Wrapping up Southwestern's times were: Colton Cloud, 13th, 19:17.8; Mitchell Adcock, 20th, 20:08.3; Lane Coles, 28th, 21:12.8; Owen Bates, 31st, 22:36.4; and Braylin Miller, 37th, 25:15.7.

"Probably one of the hardest things about coaching is keeping them focused and making them understand that this wasn't a given," Southwestern coach Zac Nussbaum said. "Jac-Cen-Del has gotten a lot better since the beginning of the year and keeping them focused was the big thing. We've got multiple goals this year and this was a big one, but now we can concentrate on making the regional."

Alderman has run near or at the top of every meet she has been this year,

Hanover racks up 600 yards in 70-0 rout of Anderson

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

HANOVER ROUNDUP

Hanover's offense racked up nearly 600 yards and the defense forced five turnovers en route to a dominating 70-0 Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference win over Anderson on Homecoming Saturday at Alumni Stadium.

The win, Hanover's fourth-straight, marks the most complete game the Panthers have put together on both sides of the football. Hanover was never challenged and never allowed Anderson to mount any rhythm after the Ravens came into the contest having won three of its first four games.

After trading punts in the first 10 minutes of the game, Hanover gathered itself and used the final five minutes of the first quarter to its advantage and quickly put three touchdowns on the scoreboard. Shawn Coane used both the run and pass game to his advantage to aid the Panthers in the frame, punching in the team's first score on a 3-yard run followed by a 23-yard touchdown catch on a throw from Noah Wezensky with 55 seconds left.

Devonte Hardiman sacked Anderson quarterback Tyson Harley on the ensuing drive to force a fumble that was recovered by B.J. Williams to bring the Panther offense back out with less than a minute to go. Wezensky fired his second touchdown pass with time expiring — a 14-yard toss to Taylor Blestein — and Hanover led 21-0 after Austin Steurer's third extra-point of the quarter.

The 21 points scored in the quarter became a staple as the Panthers spent the rest of the game overpowering the Ravens. Coane added two more touchdown runs to kickstart a 21-point second quarter that pushed Hanover's lead to 42-0 by halftime and Wezensky starred in the third quarter, throwing his final two touchdown passes — both to Jared Frank — leading another 21-point charge as the lead increased to 63-0.

Hanover filtered players in and out throughout the fourth quarter but still was able to maintain pace in scoring. The Panthers' final touchdown came on quarterback A.J. Breit's keeper from 8 yards out and Blake Simpson drilled an extra point to put the exclamation mark on the 70-0 win.

The Panthers racked up a season-high 581 yards of total offense which included nine players with a carry and eight players with at least one reception.

Wezensky led the way with his best game of the year, throwing for 359 yards and five touchdowns on 17-of-23 passing. His top target, Frank, paired his two scores with 89 receiving yards on three catches. Coane, Bleistein and Conner Gibson each had a touchdown grab with Coane adding 81 yards on four catches and Gibson totaling 77 yards on four catches. Jackson Daugherty had two catches for 67 yards.

Coane also rushed for 59 yards and a score on eight carries. Walt Ballinger starred in the second half and led the Hanover rushing attack with 77 yards and a touchdown on eight carries. Steurer was a perfect 9-for-9 on extra points and averaged 54 yards on six kickoffs.

On defense, Hanover limited Anderson to just 250 yards of total offense including a first half that saw the Panthers hold the Ravens to just four rushing yards. Anderson, averaging over 130 yards on the ground per game, managed just 41 yards total for the game and was only 5-of-17 on third down conversions for the afternoon.

Kyle Treber led an aggressive defensive attack with 10 tackles but was not alone in his efforts. Hardiman had three tackles — all for a loss — including two sacks and a fumble recovery in the second half. Williams and Joel Lupresto each had a fumble recovery and Chase Cope and Chris Shelburne each forced a fumble while Dakota Manion and Terrell Anderson Jr. both had interceptions.

Harley, a freshman, was 27-of-45 passing for 209 with the two interceptions for Anderson. Zac Tallent had 10 catches for 79 yards and James Tucker had four catches for 67 yards. Reggie Lipscomb had 15 carries for 50 yards.

but Saturday marked the first time she had run on Hanover's course. The Southwestern Invitational was canceled earlier this year and she missed the Duke Meyer Invitational last week due to illness.

But the Shawe freshman made the most of her first time on the course, posting a time of 20:49.3 to beat South Ripley's Lanie Nicholson by nine seconds.

"This was my first time on the course and I wasn't sure what to expect," Alderman said. "I knew that I wanted to get off to a good start and I did that."

Alderman ran as her school's only participant in the event and she flew the Shawe flag well. South Ripley, with three runners in the top seven, repeated as the team champion with 35 points while 2017 champ Jac-Cen-Del was second with 53. Southwestern ran third with 59 and Switzerland County was fourth with 67.

"(Alderman) came out strong with a fast first mile and managed to maintain that lead over South Ripley's very accomplished Lanie Nicholson for the remainder of the race," Shawe coach Jim Leveille said. "This is Calli's first high school season so she is still learning her pacing, but we have high hopes for her continued progress and look forward to next week's sectional where the competition will be fierce."

Julio Regueira Prats was seventh for the Switzerland County boys in 8:49.3 and Nathan Furnish was 12th in 19:04.6 as both earned all-conference honors.

Shawe's Trapper Johnson was 23rd in the boys race in 20:35.1, Wyatt Lundergan was 25th in 20:52.4 and Noah Guetig was 43rd in 29:43.2.

Switzerland County's Gracie White was fourth in 22:07.8 and teammate Alisha Detmer was fifth in 22:12.8 as both earned spots on the all-conference team. Southwestern's Kirsten Geary was ninth in 23:51.5 and Hannah Sims was 10th in 23:58.2 and also named all-conference.

The rest of Switzerland's finishes were: Allison Detmer, 20th, 26:14.3; Ning Wang, 24th, 28:52.1; and Angela Granieri, 29th, 37:22.8.

The rest of Southwestern's times were: Patricia Smith, 15th, 24:52.5; Ashton Goode, 17th, 25:17.0; Justice Kunze, 19th, 25:34.3; and Maddy Jacobs, 26th, 29:53.8.

Hoosier Hills Conference

Madison cross country is still in rebuild mode, but both coaches were pleased with the way their teams ran in the conference meet that was hosted by Jeffersonville Saturday at Hanover College.

Brett Cahall led the Madison girls with an 18th-place finish in 21:21, Clare Wilber was 28th in 22:26, Isabel Wilber was 31st in 22:43, Chloe Ferris was 35th in 23:26 and Anne Grady was 37th in 23:18. In non-scoring runs, Kayla Dattilo was 49th in 24:39 an Kelsey Bilz was 64th in 27:30.

"We had our best overall team performance of the season," Madison girls coach Josh Wilber said. "It was a great time to have it going into sectionals next week, so I was tickled pink with the way the girls ran; they ran as a group. We had several (personal bests). Clare was sick but ran through it, Brett Cahall ran her best time on this course, Chloe Ferris is coming back from two years of not being able to run much and had her best time of the season. So we're really pleased."

Julian Sample led a young Madison boys squad with a 49th-place finish in 18:29. Luke McCarty was 58th in 19:12 despite a sore hamstring, Jacob Howell was 68th in 19:37, Xavier Cosby was 81st in 21:31 and Neel Mistry was 82nd in 21:35. In non-scoring runs, Trenton Stockdale was 84th in 21:45, Trevor Hoffman was 85th in 21:49, Lane Brawner was 86th in 22:10, Lucas Owen was 87th in 22:41, Noah Burkhardt was 89th in 23:04, Leighton Wielgoszinski was 92nd in 23:56, and Christian Lyons was 93rd in 24:16.

"A lot of our guys set course (personal bests), which was what we were setting our goals on today," Madison boys coach Tyson Skinner said. "We're still about a year or two away from being able to compete in the HHC. Overall though, I was happy. Everybody achieved their goals and they're running their fastest times. The last three meets we've run have been on this course and that gives us a little advantage going into sectionals."

Floyd Central took home the hardware in both races, scoring a perfect 15 points in the girls race and beating Jennings County on a sixth-runner tie-breaker in the boys race after both teams scored 35 points.

Seymour was second in the girls race with 74 points, Columbus East was third with 95, Jennings County fourth with 98, New Albany fifth with 125, Madison sixth with 127, Bedford North Lawrence seventh with 189 and Jeffersonville eighth with 238.

Seymour was third in the boys race with 87 points, New Albany was fourth with 102, Bedford North Lawrence fifth with 137, Columbus East sixth with 155, Jeffersonville seventh with 226 and Madison eighth with 233.

Floyd Central senior Sydney Liddle and freshman Savanna Liddle finished 1-2 in the girls race with Sydney running an 18:33 and Savanna a 19:20. Jennings County's Carter Leak won the boys race in 16:15.

BRIDGE

WHAT IS THE OPPOSITE OF THE DISTAFF SIDE?

All languages have words for male and female. Some of those words arise rarely, like distaff. That word refers to the female side of the equation. But what is the masculine equivalent?

In yesterday's column, I described a great defensive play by Jacqui Mitchell. To balance the books, as it were, here is an excellent piece of declarer-play by her husband, Victor Mitchell, who died in 1995. Victor was also a great player and universally popular.

North was Sam Stayman, who died in 1993. He and Mitchell won four national championships as partners. Stayman's three-diamond opening bid promised a decent hand in their methods. West probably doubled in case South was psyching at the vulnerability.

West led the heart eight: three, 10, jack. Mitchell played on diamonds, West winning the second round. If West had had a mirror, he would have cashed his heart ace. But not knowing that the heart king was now a singleton, West switched to the spade four.

If Mitchell had won East's jack with his queen, West, when in with the ace of clubs, would have had no option but to try to drop the heart king. So Mitchell set a trap: He won with the spade ace! Then he led a low club.

Suitably duped, West rushed in with the club ace and continued with the spade five. Imagine his surprise when Mitchell won the trick with the spade 10, and when the clubs broke 3-3, he claimed two overtricks for plus 750.

Apparently, the masculine equivalent of the distaff side is the spear side! Who knew?

Madison offense stuck in neutral in 35-7 loss to Jeff

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Courier Staff Writer
dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

Madison was unable to mount any offense and Jeffersonville made enough big plays to pull away for a 35-7 win on Friday to spoil the Cubs' football homecoming.

Madison managed just 55 yards of total offense, nearly half of what Jeff amassed in penalty yards. The Cubs' only foray deep into Red Devil territory with the game still in doubt ended on a turnover and Madison didn't threaten to score until late in the game.

Madison's offensive woes started on its first series of the night and never got better. Jeffersonville's Ethan Rogers intercepted quarterback Parker Jones' third pass attempt of the game and returned it 48 yards for the touchdown less than three minutes of the game.

The Cubs spent the rest of the game with their offense stuck in neutral. Despite the efforts of punter Zach Forner to continually pin Jeffersonville deep in its own territory, Madison couldn't take advantage on offense.

"I was expecting a lot of blitzing and attacking and after that series when they saw what we were going to try to do and had their linebackers off balance, they just started sending guys and caught is inside several times," Madison coach Leroy Wilson said. "They got a linebacker free several times and forced it out of our hands. And on that first possession when they got the interception hurt. It's hard to spot a team six points right off the bat."

Jeffersonville (2-5, 2-2 Hoosier Hills) finally broke free with identical big pass plays on back-to-back possessions late in the second quarter.

Quarterback Shaun Wimberly connected with Devaca Parks for a pair of 57-yard touchdown passes on back to back possessions — the first a deep bomb and the second of the catch and run variety — as Jeffersonville took a 20-0 lead into halftime.

The Red Devils added two more scores in the second half — on an 11-yard pass from Wimberly to Parks and a 72-yard run by Isaac Finley — to blow open the game.

Madison finally broke up the shutout with less than two minutes left in the game when the Cubs recovered a muffed punt deep in Red Devil territory and Jones hit Louis Humes on an 11-yard scoring pass.

Madison finished with just 55 total yards, including minus-six on the ground, and just six first downs. Jones was 10-of-22 passing for 61 yards and two interceptions.

Jeffersonville, meanwhile, had 449 total yards, evenly spread between passing and rushing. Wimberly had 234 yards on 11-of-21 passing and Finley had 117 yards rushing as part of the 215 the Red Devils had on the ground.

"Other than one big play, we really held them and made them drive the field," Wilson said. "But offensively, it's about establishing the run game and being able to move the football and that's where we're really struggling right now."

Madison remains at home for a second-straight week this Friday then the Cubs host New Albany (2-5, 1-3 HHC).

Swiss fall at S. Decatur

Switzerland County lost 18-6 at South Decatur on Friday.

The Pacers, now 5-2 overall and 1-2 in the Mid-Indiana Football Conference, travel to league-leader North Decatur on Friday,
